I am a full stack developer who relishes the opportunity to use my creativity and intuition to develop meaningful software. I am experienced in writing both client-side and server-side code, and deliver engaging UI/UX design, effective RESTful APIs, and logical database design. My background in sales instilled in me the values of communication and teamwork, and whether troubleshooting or debugging, brainstorming optimal design, or implementing new features, I am diligent in my pursuit of a solution for any problem I am tasked with. Above all else, I love coding and am eager to grow as a developer.
